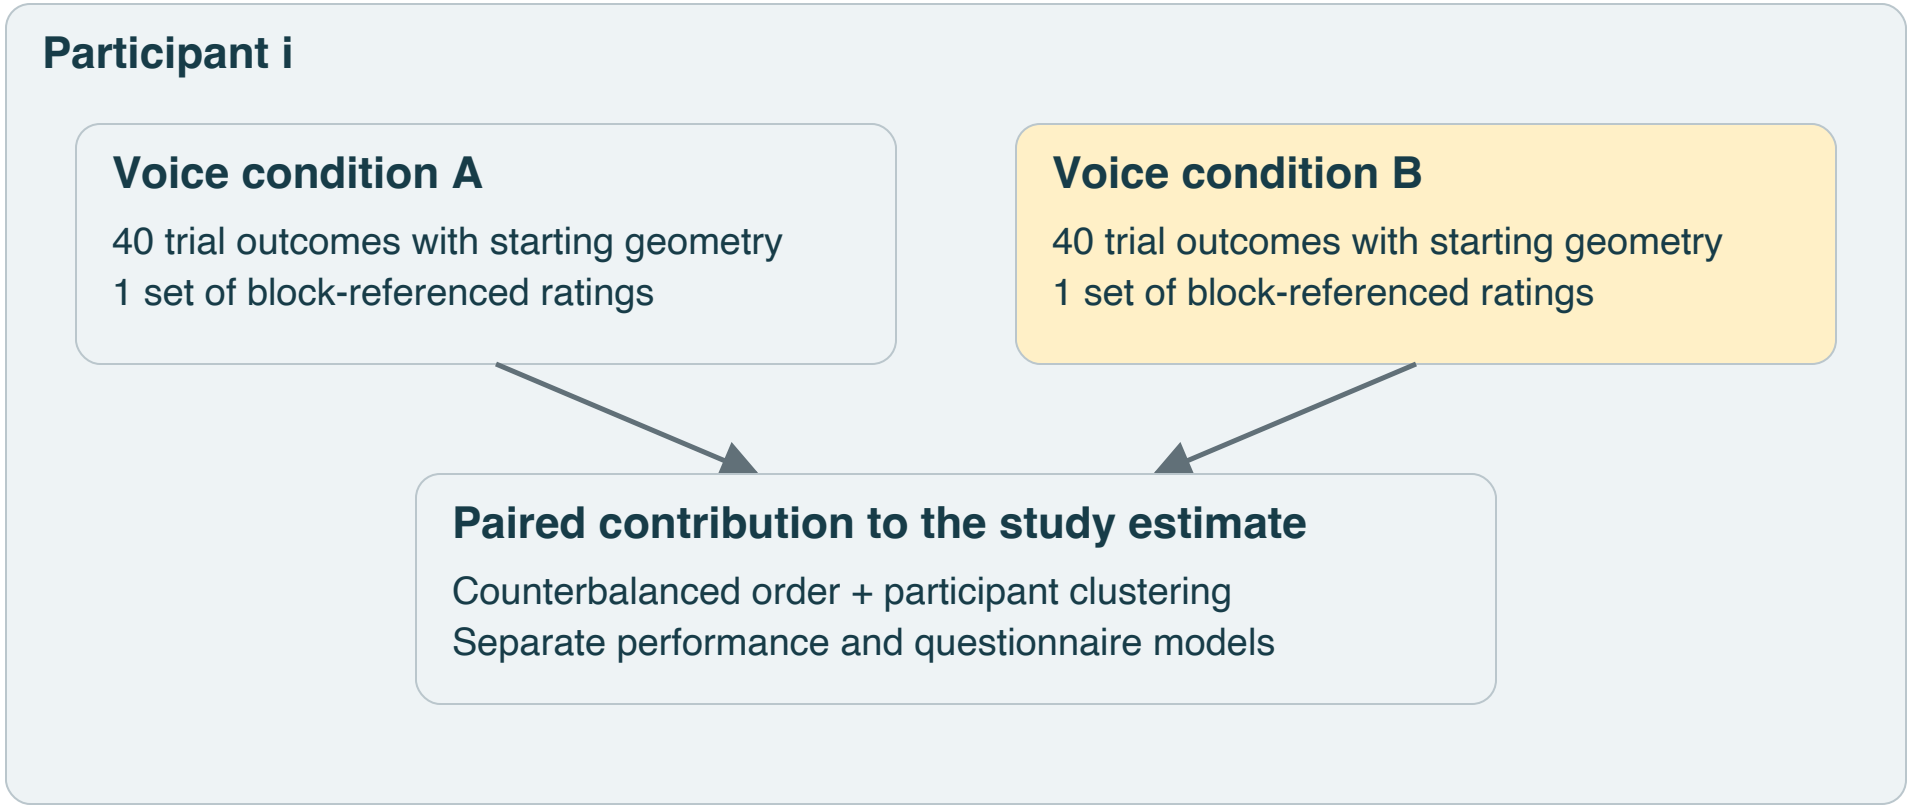
Repeated trials do not replace independent participants

Proposed analysis: within-participant contrast with explicit clustering and observation scope.



Repeat across participants; determine sample size through a prospective power analysis.